RaiseNow official Stripe Platform Partner

The partnership with the leading software platform for online payment processing simplifies the payment integration in the donation process and allows payments in global and national payment means.

"The inclusion in the Stripe Platform Partner Program gives our customers even more flexibility in the choice of payment methods offered," Marco Zaugg, CEO of RaiseNow, explains. "Our joint customers will benefit from the combination of RaiseNow's leading digital fundraising solutions with Stripe's seamlessly integrated payment platform. We are delighted to further promote online fundraising through this long-term partnership and provide donors worldwide with the best possible platform to financially support their needs."

Stripe Verified partners will be certified through a rigorous security and verification process to provide maximum security to the users of their services. "More than half of our fastest growing users are using one or more extensions of the Platform Partners," said Claire Hughes Johnson, Stripe COO, underscoring the importance of the partner network. "As Stripe becomes more sophisticated with more features, it is even more important to have partners like RaiseNow on board for successful implementation."
